C. H. Cox Has Whittled Objects as Hobby for 50 Years

C. H. Cox is quite a cutter despite his years. He's been whittling out objects for the past fifty years.

Mr. Cox, who lives by himself at Raymond and Shaw right here in Harrisburg, showed Timmo some of his specimens yesterday.

He showed me a Christ on the Cross, with background and bushes, and The Shepherd with His Sheep, that he had cut out of wood. Each was cut out of a single piece of wood.

"I use white maple," he told me. "They're all made out of solid white maple."

The two items that he had with him were made in a total of 13 days.

"I have lots of time," he told me, "to spend on my whittling. My wife died a year ago last December and I've been by myself since then."

"It's my hobby," he continued. "I've always been handy with a knife and as it can get awful lonesome for me all by myself, I can occupy my mind by carving out things."

Mr. Cox, who was born and reared here, was a carpenter, painter, blocklayer and bricklayer before he retired more than two years ago. Although he has been concentrating more on his whittling since his retirement, he has been making wooden objects for the past fifty years.

"I first started out making chickens and dogs and things like that," he told me. "Then I got to making other things and have made a lot of people's faces out of wood."

He said he didn't use the people themselves or a photo as a model.

"I just look at them and go home and start whittling."

During the past four months, he said, he had whittled out 73 figures. Now he chiefly makes religious objects.

"What do you do with all the things you make—keep them?" I asked him.

"No, I just give them to friends," he answered. "Right now at home all I have is a horse I made 32 years ago and a cemetery dove. I make these cemetery doves for graves. I whittle out a dove and attach it to a wire and then they are put over graves."

"Eight of the pieces I made I gave to Anderson Strader and he has them over his bed at the Harrisburg hospital." Mr. Strader has been hospitalized for several years with a back injury.

OUR WATER SITUATION: It's a fact that a man made a very successful rabbit-hunting trip in the center of the Harrisburg reservoir Wednesday.

CLOSER: Mrs. White to Mrs. Black over the back fence: "I don't like to repeat gossip, but what else can you do with it?"

Disarm Woman Refusing to Leave Burning Building

PEORIA —Police and firemen had to disarm a pistol-wielding elderly woman Thursday night before they could get her out of a flaming building where she had hidden her life savings.

The woman Mrs. Mae Reed, told officers she lost $10,000 she had hidden in a coal bucket when fire leveled the brick and frame Maslow Co. building on the banks of the Illinois river.

She had lived in a three-room apartment in the building for many years as a caretaker. She said she didn't "trust" banks and so secreted her cash around the building.

When she was taken to police headquarters, Mrs. Reed carried a tin can which she said had $5,000 in it.

When firemen and policemen entered the building they were met by Mrs. Reed, who pointed a gun at them. They said they were forced to take it away from her before she would leave the fire scene.

The Weather

India Command To Give POWs One More Chance

Gen. Thimayya to Conduct Head Count Of 21 Americans

TOKYO (AP)—The Indian Command said today it would give 21 unrepatriated American prisoners another chance to return to their homeland and families.

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian head of the prisoners' commission, promised to conduct a "head count" of the Americans, thus giving them an opportunity to request repatriation.

The Indians' announcement came at the same time that Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, chief truce negotiator, made a mystery flight from Tokyo to Seoul, indicating the United Nations may try to reopen talks on a Korean peace conference.

There were other important developments on the Korean front: 1. South Korea charged that the United Nations was losing its battle with the Communists by trying to negotiate a peaceful settlement of the Korean question.

2. The Indian Command charged that South Korea "agents" had disrupted its "head count" of 22,000 anti-Communist Chinese and North Koreans because 135 accepted repatriation last week.

3. Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, 8th Army commander, said he had given South Korean Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tae advance warning that American troops would protect Indian guards from attacks by ROKs attempting to free anti-Communist prisoners.

4. Taylor announced he would make public U. N. plans for processing the anti-Communist prisoners at midnight, Jan. 22—the date for their release to which both sides agreed in the Korean armistice.

When it became apparent none of the then 22 Americans who had refused repatriation would attend Allied "come home" lectures, Thimayya, as head of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission said he would conduct his own interviews after the deadline.

Thimayya said he could offer the Americans another chance to go home simply by bringing them face to face with Indian custodial officers.

Arriving in Seoul with Taylor was Harrison, who conferred briefly in his plane with Kenneth Young, State Department expert on the Far East, and Maj. Gen. J. K. Lacey of the military armistice commission.

Harrison returned to Tokyo without leaving the plane in Seoul, causing speculation that he had conferred with Young on reopening talks on the stalled Korean peace conference.

Young had been left behind in Korea in mid-December to deal with the Reds if they desired to sit down at the negotiations table again. U. N. envoy Arthur Dean had brokered off the talks because the Reds accused the United States of "perfidy" in Rhee's unauthorized release of 27,000 anti-Communist North Korean prisoners June 18, before the truce was signed.

Auto Stolen in Eldorado Is Found in Tennessee

A car stolen at Eldorado Saturday night was found abandoned in Jackson, Tenn. Sheriff Paul Spangler was informed yesterday.

The auto, a Kaiser belonging to Austin Cox of Eldorado, was taken from its uptown parking space.

Officers were told the transmission of the car had locked before it was abandoned.

Schools in Greece Neglected, Teacher Studying High School System Here Says

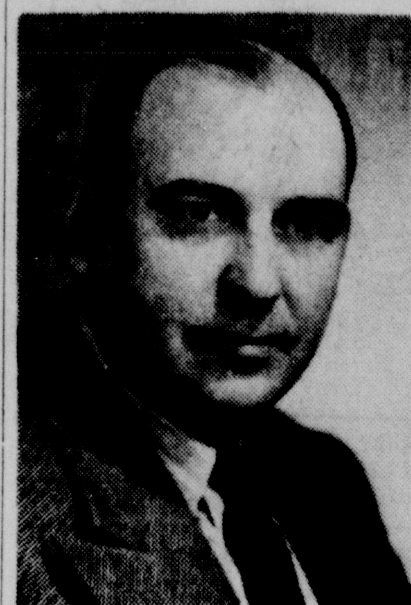

A new personality will be in this community for the next month and today she was at Harrisburg Township high school, where she will study the organization and methods of the local system of secondary education.

She is Miss Iphigenia Koufidaki, a teacher from Greece who is spending six months in this country studying our ways of teaching. She'll take her information back to Greece and some of what she has learned may be put into practice there.

She is participating in the Teacher Education program of the Department of State and the U. S. Office of Education. A teacher of Greek, Latin and history in various Greek high schools from 1936 to 1953 and at present on leave from a post in an Athens high school where she teaches modern Greek, Latin and history, she was selected to come to this country for study.

Arrived in August, Her visit to Harrisburg was arranged by Luther Black of the state superintendent's office in Springfield.

Speaking definitely understandable English with enthusiasm and revealing a seriousness of purpose,

Judge L. M. Hancock

Hancock Begins His Fifteenth Year as Judge

When Attorney L. M. Hancock was re-elected city judge of Harrisburg last Tuesday, he began his fifteenth year as a judge in Saline county, and will have completed 20 years on the bench at the end of the present term.

Judge Hancock served as county judge of Saline county from 1930 to 1938, then was returned to the bench as city judge in 1949 for his first six-year term in that capacity.

Judge Hancock, a native of Stonefort, began practicing law in Saline county as assistant state's attorney in 1926, and has continued his law offices here during that time.

During that time he has been an active citizen, a past master of the Stonefort Masonic lodge, past president of the Harrisburg Kiwanis club, secretary of the Saline County Fair association since 1946 and has been an active member of the First Presbyterian church in Harrisburg, especially in lending legal assistance due to the church rebuilding program.

City judges have generally the same legal authority accorded circuit judges, and he has been asked to sit in various courts in the state, including Chicago.

The Hancocks reside at 205 West Church street in Harrisburg. Mrs. Hancock is the former Mary Ann Hetherington, and they have three daughters—Cynthia, attending college at St. Charles, Mo.; Martha Ann, a student at the University of Illinois; and Mrs. Tom Garrison of Danville, Ill.

Haul Water for Muddy School

Muddy grade school's regular water supply is exhausted and water for drinking is being hauled from Eldorado, John Murphy, school principal stated today.

Murphy stated the school was supplied by the power plant and at present the plant obtains water only from the spray pond, which is unfit for drinking purposes. The spray pond water is still being used in the school rest rooms and washing dishes in the kitchen. However, it is boiled before use in the kitchen, it was said.

To cut down on dish washing paper plates and cups are being used in the cafeteria and paper cups are also being supplied to students for drinking purposes. Drinking water is hauled to the school from Eldorado, stored in a well and made available to the students in jugs in the school building.

There was a chance to visit many of the secondary schools in the larger cities of Florida. This group of 21 broke up into two sections, with 11 coming to Illinois and 10 going to Indiana, to study ways of secondary education in high schools.

Miss Koufidaki told of Greece's battle for freedom and culture, of its problems caused chiefly by domination by other nations. Schools neglected in Greece 1950, she stated, that "the situation in Greece is not settled down, and one-half of the budget goes to the army; so the schools are neglected."

She said that in her country the equipment in high schools is very poor, but that the curriculum is very heavy there. In the 11th and 12th grades, our junior and senior years, she said that the teachers and students go deep into their subjects.

Miss Koufidaki said that she learned the English language by herself and it helped to get her the opportunity to come to this country. Over here, she said, she has freedom to observe anything she desires in the field of education, but that she must make reports on what she finds.

Union Agent is Found Guilty Of Racketeering

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Paul H. Hulahan, business agent for the AFL Building Laborers Union Local 42, was convicted Thursday night on all eight counts of an indictment charging him with labor racketeering.

A federal court jury of nine men and three women returned the verdict to Federal Judge George H. Moore after deliberating an hour and 45 minutes.

Hulahan, 42, will be sentenced Jan. 21. He faces a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison and a fine of $10,000 on each of the eight counts.

He denied categorically all the charges in the indictment and the testimony of all witnesses heard during the four-day trial.

Specifically he had been charged under three counts of the indictment with an attempted $50,000 shakedown of M. H. Carpenter, contractor for a large housing project.

Youth Fined Here After Fracas In Theatre Lobby

Bobby Gene Reed, Hardin county youth who was the focal point of a fracas in the Orpheum theatre lobby last night between 8 and 8:30, today faced fines and costs totalling $113.40 for being drunk, disorderly, resisting arrest and carrying a concealed weapon.

Reed, from whom a loaded .22 calibre revolver dropped to the floor during the entanglement, was assessed the fines by Police Magistrate Charles McKenzie. Sober and docile in court this morning, he was quite a battler last night, police said.

The city police record today said that Officers Pat Atkinson and John Dunn received a call at 8:25 p. m. from the Orpheum, where employees were attempting to eject from the lobby a drunken man from whom a revolver had dropped to the floor.

The officers sped to the theatre and they, too, had quite a struggle before they could get handcuffs on Reed and take him to the city jail.

Douglas, Peterman and Mallett Endorsed by Democratic Committee

SPRINGFIELD —Three Democrats today bore party organization endorsement for nomination to statewide offices in the Illinois primary election April 13.

The Democratic State Central committee voted Thursday to back: Paul H. Douglas, 51, Chicago, for a second term as U. S. senator.

Mark A. Peterman, 55, Springfield, for state superintendent of public instruction.

David F. Mallett, 43, East St. Louis, for state treasurer.

Douglas, completing a six-year term as senator, previously had announced he would seek reelection. He was first elected in the 1948 Democratic landslide when he defeated C. Wayland Brooks.

Douglas is a former economics professor at the University of Chicago and once was a Chicago alderman. He served in the Pacific theater with the Marines in World War II.

Teacher, Coach 25 Years
Peterman has been a member of the Springfield High School faculty as a teacher and as coach for 25 years. Previously he was on the Canton high school faculty nine years.

Peterman ran for nomination as state school superintendent in 1950, but lost to C. Hobart Engle of Cuba, who had organization endorsement.

He is widely known for having taken more teams to the state prep basketball finals than any other coach.

Mallett has been clerk of the 4th District Appellate Court since 1950. He has been in the auto business since 1932 and is now a dealer at Collinsville.

Nineteen of the 25 state central committee members attended the meeting, one casting a proxy for an absentee. Chairman James A. Ronan of Chicago said the endorsement vote was unanimous.

Ronan said there was some preliminary discussion about an "open" primary with no endorsement of anyone by the committee.

The recruit, who was handling live grenades for the first time, said he threw one and it got off safely.

"When I threw the second, I fell to the ground as instructed, but apparently threw it too low and it hit the parapet," he said. "Next thing I knew, Sergeant Moran pushed me hard and I heard the explosion."

Lt. Joseph Stewart, range officer, said he saw the incident from a distance and "it appeared that the sergeant tried to shield O'Callaghan."

Moran, a Korean combat veteran, died in the post hospital from wounds of the head, chest, arms and legs suffered when he caught the full force of the grenade blast. He was alone with O'Callaghan in the 10-foot-square training pit when the accident occurred.

No County Court Jury Cases Monday
County Judge Ralph W. Choiser today said there would be no county court jury cases Monday, Jan. 11, as had been scheduled because there is an insufficient number of cases on the docket to warrant the calling of a jury.

He said that all jurors summoned for duty Monday are now excused and that a new jury will be selected for the next jury term, tentatively slated for February.

Two cases were continued yesterday because of illness of the defense attorney.

Two teenage lads were fined today in police magistrate court on charges of disorderly conduct after a local woman reported to police that the pair were following her in another auto and were annoying her. Their fines amounted to $16.40 each.

Farm Price Program Also Faces Opposition

Congressional Leaders Favorable To Other Items

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's tax proposals and new farm price plan, key points in his program for a "stronger America," ran into formidable congressional opposition today.

Friends of Rep. Daniel A. Reed said the powerful New York Republican was prepared to fight — as he did in an epic struggle last year — against Mr. Eisenhower's recommendation that tax cuts slated for April 1 be postponed.

As chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, Reed is in a position where it takes a near-earthquake to budge him. House Republican leaders were forced to resort to extraordinary tactics to subdue him last year in a fight over cutting personal income taxes and extending the excess profits tax.

Want Rigid Supports
Aside from taxes and farm policy, GOP congressional leaders were generally optimistic that they could push through most other major items of the President's program — such as Social Security changes, the defense budget and reduced foreign aid.

But the President's new "approach" to farm price supports faced tough sledding. Most Democrats and many Republicans want to extend major provisions of the present farm program to keep farm price supports on

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

I know not the Lord.—Ex. 5:2.

In our day several tyrants have said that. One said his empire would last a thousand years. He died a suicide in closer to a thousand days than a thousand years. There are still those who claim to know nothing of God. They will surely destroy themselves. The stars in their course fought against Sisyra. They still fight against tyrannous men.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: No fireworks popped between Harry Truman and me; Ex-President Pays Tribute To The Other Ex-President; HST Remembered Early Merry-Go-Round Column About Truman Committee.

WASHINGTON. — A lot of people have been asking me if it was true that I had a visit with Harry Truman in Kansas City the other day, and if so, what he said to me and I said to him. The answer on point 1 is in the affirmative. The answer on point 2 is that we had an extremely pleasant talk.

If anyone was looking for fireworks I'm afraid they'll be disappointed. I went out to Kansas City to interview Mr. Truman for a television program opening this week in which I wanted to ask him about his record for combating communism and the famous remark about "red herrings."

Since the interview, most people have seemed more interested in the personal side of the visit, doubtless remembering some differences of opinion we once had over Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, of whom I was critical and to whom Mr. Truman was loyal. That came up only in a very indirect manner.

Mr. Truman has a rather modest office in the Federal Reserve Bank at which he arrives just as early as he did at his desk in the White House. Though now 69 years old, he looked in the pink of condition, younger and more rested than he did as President. When I told him so, he replied: "I feel better than I deserve."

Around his office were shelves lined chiefly with history books. "I've always read a lot of history," he said. "And now I'm trying to write some myself."

WRITING HISTORY On his desk was a huge stack of mail, and when I remarked on it, he said: "I get about 1,000 letters a day and do my best to get it answered. A lot of it has to be answered personally. But my job is getting this book written. I try to finish about 10,000 words a day."

As one who makes his living writing, I observed, "that's quite a chore."

"It's only in rough form so far," Mr. Truman explained. "My research staff comes in and I dictate from memory my recollection of events. Then they check my memory back against dates and the written record. We've already finished about one volume."

"Sometimes," mused Mr. Truman, "I wish I hadn't undertaken these doggone memoirs. By the time I finish paying taxes I won't have any profit from them. But I wanted to do this for history. I went through some important and tumultuous years and I think it's my duty to record them."

"This country has given me a lot, and one thing I want to do when I finish these memoirs is to go out and lecture at colleges about the duties and obligations of citizenship. I want to talk to the youngsters, not the older people, and tell them what a great country this is and the obligation they have to keep it that way."

CRITIC OF PRESS

Mr. Truman talked of many things, much of it off the record. "Whenever you wrote anything mean," he said, "Roy Roberts would play it up in the Kansas City Star. Whenever you wrote anything nice about me, he would omit your column altogether. It gave me and others a lopsided opinion of what you were writing."

"That's the trouble with the newspapers today. They only want to print one side of the story. Roy Roberts blames me for indicting him, but the fact is I didn't know about it until well after the Justice Department had begun the case."

The ex-President made no criticism of President Eisenhower, though he did talk about some of the big problems facing him.

"I've been very careful in what I said about my successor," he explained, "but the biggest problem facing any President is to sell the American people on a policy. They have to be led forward. It's not a matter of keeping your ear to the ground to find out what the American people are saying and then trying to please them."

"You can hear one opinion on Grand Street and another opinion a few blocks away on Baltimore Street. And the President of the United States has to mold that opinion and lead it forward. That's the biggest challenge every President faces, and one which he cannot escape."

THE OTHER EX-PRESIDENT The conversation drifted round to our only other living ex-President, Herbert Hoover, and the fact that he was long ignored after he left the White House.

"I was always glad," said Mr. Truman, "that I helped bring Mr. Hoover back into the public eye. I thought it was a shame the way they treated him. You may remember that I appointed him head of a commission to study Europe's food needs, and later appointed him and Dean Acheson as joint heads of a commission to study the reorganization of the government. They did a fine job and I was able to get most of their recommendations approved by Congress."

I recalled to Mr. Truman that Mr. Hoover had once made an off-the-record speech at the Gridiron Club in high praise of Truman.

The other ex-President said he remembered it and added: "At the Republican convention in 1948, the Republicans asked Hoover to make the keynote speech and wanted him to smear me. When he refused, they got another speaker. Mr. Hoover told me about it himself."

REMEMBERS DP COLUMN

Mr. Truman had some interesting things to say about the 1944 convention which nominated him as vice president and the fact that he didn't want the nomination.

"Nobody will believe me when I say that," he said, "but I was completely surprised. I tried to argue with those fellows at Chicago that I didn't want to be vice president. I told them: 'Look at all the vice presidents in history. Where are they? They were about as useful as a cow's fifth teat.'"

After our television interview ended, Mr. Truman said: "You have forgotten it, but back in 1940 you wrote a story that I've never forgotten."

"The great Byrnes had allocated the magnificent sum of $15,000 to investigate national defense. And you wrote for the first time in history a Senate committee was going round the country investigating national defense and at the same time cooperating with the executive branch of the government."

"That was the beginning of the Truman committee, and that's why I'm glad to see you today."

Ministerial Alliance Meets To Discuss Signs For Churches; Rev. Herrin Elected President

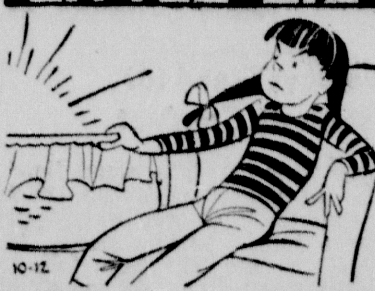

The Carrier Mills Ministerial Alliance met at the First Baptist church Saturday at 2 p. m. with five ministers present.

The subject of signs for the churches was discussed, and the committee reported that the materials had been given to the sign workers to finish. The signs are for the group of churches and are to read "Welcome to the Churches of Carrier Mills."

In the election of officers Rev. Ernest Ammon, pastor of the Baptist church, was re-elected president but resigned against the wishes of the group. Rev. H. H. Herrin, pastor of the Methodist church, was then elected president. Rev. Fuller, pastor of the Friend Street Church of God, was elected vice president, and Rev. Carl Hanvey, pastor of the Church of God on Main street, was retained as secretary and treasurer.

A supper was planned for the ministers and their families, and it was also agreed to have a union meeting of all the church people to see the film of Dr. Billy Graham of Minneapolis, Minn.

Pilot Uses Up Fuel Before Landing Crippled Plane

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—A pilot circled Grand Rapids Airport for four hours Thursday night waiting for his fuel supply to run out so he could crash-land his crippled twin-engine plane without fear of a gasoline tank explosion.

The pilot, William Thomas of Gary, Ind., finally nosed the converted B-26 attack bomber down and skidded to a safe stop. Neither he nor his co-pilot was injured. The plane, owned by the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, took off from Gary late Thursday. A short time later, Thomas noticed that the landing gear was frozen with the wheels only partly retracted. Thomas tried for nearly two hours to free the landing gear while circling the Gary field. Finally he was ordered on to Grand Rapids, which has a larger airport and better fire-fighting equipment. The plane was damaged only slightly.

Trash and brush should be burned in the evening, not in the morning. Many fires started in the morning get out of control because of a d d o r temperature rises, humidity drops, and the wind picks up.

McKinley Baptist Circle C Makes Plans for Focus Week

Mrs. Charles Fulkerson was hostess to Circle C of the McKinley Avenue W. M. S. Tuesday night. The meeting was opened with the song, "Wonderful Words of Life," and with prayer by Mrs. Ben Yarbrough.

An interesting devotion entitled "Service" was given by Mrs. Houston Smith which was followed by a duet by Mrs. Charles Fulkerson and Mrs. Elbert Norris, who sang "Just For Today."

Mrs. Grover Dale Fulkerson gave a topic entitled "Thailand," Mrs. Bill Molsinger, "The Good Samaritan," and Mrs. David Martin, "Just a Little Runt."

Discussions and plans were made for the W. M. U. focus week which will be Jan. 17 through the 23 at the church.

Roll call was made, and the following members were present: Mrs. Elbert Norris, Mrs. Bill Molsinger, Mrs. R. C. Fritts, Mrs. David Martin, Mrs. Roy Caldwell, Mrs. Grover Dale Fulkerson, Mrs. Wayne Swan, Mrs. Norman Pickford, Mrs. Ben Yarbrough, Mrs. Houston Smith, Mrs. Wayne Newcomb and Mrs. Charles Fulkerson. Mrs. Wayne Newcomb closed with prayer. Following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed, and refreshments of ice cream sodas and cookies were served.

The February meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Houston Smith.

St. Ann's Altar Society Holds Annual Election

At the regular meeting of St. Ann's Altar society of St. Mary's church, held Wednesday evening in the church hall, the annual election of officers was held. Mrs. Trafton Dennis was elected president; Mrs. Edward Kezely, vice-president; Mrs. N. E. Harold, secretary, and Mrs. John Ronomosky, treasurer.

The meeting was opened and closed with prayer by Father Brunns who spoke briefly about the Inquiry class beginning Monday evening, Jan. 11. He also handed out pamphlets to be given to friends in connection with the Inquiry class.

The devotion, "Why Not Attend Daily Mass," was presented by Mrs. Marie McCormick. Following the devotion, refreshments of cookies and coffee were served by the out-going officers. Mrs. Marie McCormick, president, Mrs. Walter Geltosky, vice-president, Mrs. Donald Leech, secretary, and Mrs. Mildred Herrmann, treasurer.

Opposition in Congress to Vote By 18-Year-Olds

WASHINGTON (UP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today the active part young people took in the 1952 election campaigns proved the wisdom of President Eisenhower's plan to give 18-year-olds the vote.

Nixon, a long-time supporter of 18-year-old voting, said he thinks the recommendation Mr. Eisenhower made in his State of the Union message "has a very good chance of passage."

Some congressional leaders were less optimistic. There appeared to be considerable opposition to the plan—especially in the House. Similar plans have been introduced in the past but failed to gain approval.

"In the last presidential election people 18 to 21 proved that they possessed the background, maturity and interest to vote," Nixon said. "I think everyone was impressed by the fact that thousands in that age bracket took an active part in the campaign—even though they were not old enough to vote."

In both houses of Congress, Republicans acted quickly to introduce legislation to carry out the President's plan.

Chairman William Langer (R-N. D.) said today he will ask his Senate Judiciary Committee to act as soon as possible on his similar constitutional amendment. But Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev.), top Democrat on the committee, said the plan requires "very cautious study."

Chairman Chauncey W. Reed (R-Ill.) of the House Judiciary Committee agreed that Congress should "go slow." Reed believes it doesn't necessarily follow that "a man old enough to fight is mature enough to vote."

Shoulders Pleads Innocent to Charge of Perjury

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—Former St. Louis police Lt. Louis Shoulders pleaded innocent today to a federal charge of perjury and was granted 20 days to file motions against the indictment growing out of the Greenleaf kidnapping case.

Shoulders was indicted Dec. 29 by a grand jury investigating the disappearance of half the $600,000 Greenleaf ransom money.

The indictment charged the officer, whose arrest of kidnaper Carl Hall broke the case, lied in testifying the suitcases containing the ransom money were taken to the Newstead Police Station in St. Louis when Hall was booked.

Shoulders was permitted to remain free on $10,000 bond. He and his attorney said they would return to St. Louis today.

Shoulders refused to comment on the arraignment or any other aspects of the case. He resigned Oct. 24 from the St. Louis police department but it has not been accepted formally. His companion in the arrest of Hall, Patrolman Elmer Dolan, also is under indictment for perjury. Dolan is free under $7,500 bond, and has until Jan. 11 to file motions against the indictment.

Mrs. Kirt Gasaway Hostess to Circle A of McKinley Baptist

Circle A of the McKinley Avenue Baptist church met at the home of Mrs. Kirt Gasaway Wednesday afternoon. The meeting opened with the song "Jesus Saves" and with prayer by Mrs. George Langford.

Mrs. Webb Yarbrough was present to tell of focus week of the W. M. U. and of the preparation of this week, and of the first quarterly meeting.

After the song "Rescue the Perishing" was sung, Mrs. Langford again led in prayer, and Mrs. Guy Worthington gave the devotion from the scriptures in the 10th chapter of Luke, verses 30 to 37.

Mrs. Gasaway gave a topic on "The West is Becoming Stabilized," written by F. F. Dullies, and Mrs. Ernestine Brinkley presented a talk on "Alaska's Reflections" by O. L. Griffith, promoter of Southern Baptist work in Alaska.

Mrs. Gasaway and Mrs. Hugh Rann reported on the Christmas baskets of fruit and candies that were delivered to shut-ins and aged.

The closing prayer was given by Mrs. Otis Reynolds, and it was decided that the next meeting would be with Mrs. George Langford.

After the meeting refreshments of cup cakes, fruited jello, hot chocolate and coffee were served to Mrs. Otis Reynolds, Mrs. Guy Worthington, Mrs. Carsa Gardner, Mrs. Oscar Agin, Mrs. Ernestine Brinkley, Mrs. Mollie Ervin, Mrs. Hugh Rann, Mrs. Ruth Gaskins, Mrs. George Leathers, Mrs. Kirt Gasaway, and Mrs. George Langford.

Following refreshments a handkerchief shower was given to Mrs. Leathers who is leaving around the middle of this month.

Mrs. Ted (Marie) Price, who has been a patient in the Barnes hospital in St. Louis where she received the radioactive iodine treatment for hyperthyroidism, is now at her home on Route 2, Harrisburg.

Mrs. Morris Holladay of 614 Fifth street, East Alton, the former Miss Sarah Rose Vocum of Harrisburg, underwent surgery Thursday at Faith hospital, 300 North Kingshighway, St. Louis, Mo. Her room number is 207. She rallied favorably from the surgery, but is expected to remain in the hospital four or five days.

Russians Deadlock Talks on Site for Big 4 Conference

BERLIN (UP)—The Russians have deadlocked preliminary negotiations for the scheduled Big Four foreign ministers' conference by insisting that all of its sessions be held in Soviet Berlin, informed sources said today.

The informants said that at Thursday's meeting of the four commandants of this divided city, Russia's Sergei A. Dengin refused to consider the Western view that at least three sessions in four should be held in Berlin's Western sectors.

The commandants meet again Saturday to resume discussions of the issue, but it appeared unlikely that the deadlock would be broken.

Malenkov Holds Grip on Russia on 52nd Birthday

LONDON (UP)—Premier Georgi M. Malenkov was 52 years old today, and he seemed to be holding his grip.

Iron Curtain observers here believe the Cossack now holds a position perhaps more solid than at any time since Lavrenti P. Beria fell last June.

It was a big year for Malenkov, the biggest in his long and dangerous career in the Communist party. On his 51st birthday he was one of many eligibles in line for Josef Stalin's mantle. On his 52nd he wears the mantle, Beria is dead and a "new wind" is blowing in Russia, a wind whispering of economic and cultural concessions to the population and sounding like a bid for popularity with the people in an hour of crisis.

While Malenkov to this day has not succeeded in stepping into Stalin's shoes as a dictator, his influence is believed to be growing by virtue of his qualities as negotiator and peacemaker in the midst of the warring Kremlin leaders.

He is still the leader of the communist party and he has managed to retain his post as premier despite the dramatic downfall of his one-time friend Beria, which some observers believe was brought about by the growing strength of the army and the "Russian" party in the Kremlin.

A cautious but unmistakable build-up of Malenkov in the Soviet press has been noticed recently by Western observers.

However, Radio Moscow failed to mention the occasion of Malenkov's birthday in early morning news broadcasts monitored in London.

18 FBI Warnings Sent Truman Administration

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee disclosed today that the Truman administration got 18 FBI warnings linking Edward J. Fitzgerald with Communist espionage while he was on the federal payroll.

The subcommittee read into its record a Justice Department statement that the former Treasury and Commerce Department official was mentioned in seven general FBI summaries on Communist espionage from Nov. 27, 1945, to Dec. 15, 1948. Six of these came before Fitzgerald resigned Sept. 19, 1947.

In addition, the Justice Department said the FBI sent 11 special letters of memoranda concerning Fitzgerald in about the same period—including one a few days after he resigned from the Commerce Department.

Four of these went to the White House, six to the Justice Department, and one to the Commerce Department.

Present at today's hearing were three Republican senators: Chairman William E. Jenner (Ind.), Herman Welker (Idaho) and John Marshall Butler (Md.). No Democrats attended, though Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) arrived later for a closed meeting.

The Justice Department said four letters concerning Fitzgerald were sent to George E. Allen, adviser to former President Truman.

Jenner said Fitzgerald testified last year that he was never investigated by a loyalty board. When he went before a grand jury investigating espionage charges in 1947, W. Averell Harriman, then secretary of commerce, asked Fitzgerald to take leave of absence, he said, but he resigned instead.

Indiana Gopher Winner Will Be Team to Beat

CHICAGO (AP)—One victory won't make the season, but the winner of the Indiana-Minnesota basketball game Saturday will be the team to beat for the Big Ten championship.

The Hoosiers, defending champion of both the Big Ten and the Big AA, and Minnesota were two of the three teams still undefeated after only ten conference games, and both clubs were ranked among the four pre-season favorites.

But the other two favorites, Illinois and Michigan State, were beaten in their first conference starts to leave Iowa the only other undefeated club in the circuit.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—James J. Carroll, one-time St. Louis odds-maker convicted recently on an income tax charge, was a free man today.

Federal Judge Richard M. Duncan Thursday reversed the Oct.

The judge said the facts were "insufficient to sustain a conviction."

Carroll was indicted Dec. 14, 1951, by a federal grand jury in Kansas City. He was charged with failure to report payments in excess of $500 each to designated persons during the calendar years of 1948, 1949 and 1950.

THE ANGELS FELL by Bruno Fischer

XXI

Ben Helm's mild brown eyes searched my face. "Mrs. Larkin knows law. She used to be her husband's law secretary. She would know that her chance for a self-defense plea was excellent."

"Yes," I muttered. "Assuming that she was foolish enough to go into hiding instead of claiming self-defense, she would have used those records to hush it up. She would have got in touch with Maudson some days ago and put pressure on him. Her actions show that she has a lot of confidence in what the records can accomplish."

He took out the lighter, ran a thumb along the metal, then discarded it for the matches. "The only sensible explanation of her disappearance is that she's dead."

I sat down on Joey's bed. A silence hung between us. I felt I had to break it or choke.

"That's Russ Handy's theory," I said.

"He told me. Several others believe the same. They're sure that Mrs. Larkin would have used the records if she were alive. You can't because if eventually her body is found the fact that you possessed the records would mean you were the last to see her alive. Not Maudson and Congressman Rahn and that smart daughter of his, plus all the political pull in the state, could fix a double killing."

I said: "So that's why they're convinced I have the records."

"Uh-huh. She came here to bring them to you, so either you have them or she has. If she's dead, that leaves you."

"You said that's what some people believe. What do you believe?"

"I'm keeping an open mind."

He was the first one of them who had been honest with me—more or less, anyway. He was a cop of sorts, but he was a nice guy. It would be comforting to have him on my side.

He started to go then, but he stopped at the door for a parting shot.

"You realize how far you've got Martha Paley into this."

There was no doubt about it—he scared me. Nobody else had even remotely connected Martha with the murder.

"What about her?" I said.

"I'm not sure," Mrs. Larkin's maid told me that a woman called her all night Thursday, the night of the murder, and well into the morning. The same voice, she said, calling herself Mrs. Van something. This morning I checked toll calls from West Amber to Raventon at the telephone exchange. That night Miss Paley made quite a number.

He waited for comment, and I uttered the first words that entered my head. "What did she say?"

"That she wanted to ask Mrs. Larkin if she could take your son on a vacation." He smiled pleasantly and added: "Three months off, but evidently she couldn't wait till next day."

"She's impulsive."

"Uh-huh. She put it that she was a creature of impulse. You got together on your lines. On what else did you get together?"

I said: "I'm shaving. You can hang around if you want to."

On my desk there was a fat tabloid. It was folded open to page four and there was a two-column photo of Dina under a head that said: "D.A.'S WIFE SOUGHT IN HUSBAND'S MURDER," and then two columns of story.

I thrust the paper aside and told myself to get down to work, and I saw Martha coming into the office. The phone rang.

"He's right here," Mrs. Fleming said into the phone and turned her head. "A long distance call for you, Paul."

Martha spun in her swivel chair. Her lips formed a silent word: Dina!

It was a man's voice, precise and vibrant saying, "Mr. Flagg? This is Dr. Champion of Carmount School."

All at once my stomach was hollow. "Yes?"

"Did Joey communicate with you this morning?"

"No. What is it?"

"I hesitated to call you, Mr. Flagg. I doubt if there is reason to be alarmed, but I feel—"

"What happened to Joey?"

I felt rather than saw Martha rise from her desk.

Dr. Champion cleared his throat. "Joey hasn't been seen since the 10 o'clock game period. He didn't appear for lunch, and now at a quarter past one—"

I just sat there holding the phone.

"Joey is a stable, responsible boy," the school director said.

"He's not the type to simply wander off. Mr. Flagg, did he have anything on his mind when you brought him back last night?"

"No." The word was a croak.

"As I said, there is no reason to be alarmed, but I believe it my duty to communicate with the police."

It was a clumsy lie, but Dr. Champion wouldn't know how clumsy. He sounded relieved.

"Very well, Mr. Flagg."

Senior Bowl Game to Pit Southern Passes Against Northern Ground Attack

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Forty-eight college seniors get their first taste of play-for-pay football Saturday in the fifth annual Senior Bowl game which pits a pass-happy group of Southerners up against the crunching ground attack of a big North squad.

The game will be played under pro-style two-platoon rules, and the resemblance to the pro game does not end there. Each member of the winning squad will get $600, each member of the losers $400, with bonuses if attendance justifies.

Coach of the North team is Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns. The South coach is Steve Owen, late of the pro New York Giants.

Each member of the two 24-man squads, including a generous sprinkling of all-America selections, has completed his college eligibility.

The game will be something of a switch for Brown, who over the years has dished out to his pro opponents, via quarterback Otto Graham, perhaps the most devastating aerial attack in football. His job Saturday will be to stop Zeke Bratkowski.

Northern Line is Massive

Bratkowski has just completed a fabulous passing career at Georgia and is considered a cinch for future pro stardom. His rifle throws will be the chief threat in the South attack. Behind him Owen can produce either Auburn's Vince Dooley or Jim Gray of East Texas State to keep the air filled with such receivers as ends Dave Davis of Georgia Tech and Dreher Gaskin of Clemson.

The South line includes standouts Crawford Mims of Mississippi and J. D. Roberts of Oklahoma. In the backfield will be Tommy Lewis, Alabama fullback of Cotton Bowl bench-rattle fame.

The North attack will feature a covey of break-away halfbacks and hard-running linebackers including Billy Wells of Michigan State, Gene Filipki of Villanova, Harland Carl of Wisconsin, Ralph Felton of Maryland and Tom Allman of West Virginia.

They will operate behind a massive line, which averages more than 210 pounds and is built around such stalwarts as 256-pound Bob Fleck, Syracuse tackle, and 220-pound center Jim Neal of Michigan State.

By V. T. HAMLIN

The biggest cry-babies in sports are professional basketball players, who moan on every call against them. It's a fever that's catching when Verne Mikkelsen, solemn and silent Great Dane of the Minneapolis Lakers, joins in the chorus.

Before the Rose Bowl game, Red Sanders of UCLA was telling us he never had a punt blocked in all his coaching career. Tommy Lewis, the 'Baman who pulled a Roy Riegels in the Cotton Bowl, is rated the finest fullback he's ever coached by Red Drew.

LaSalle's Tom Gola came out of the Garden Holiday Festival generally acclaimed the finest college basketball player in the country. And if you don't believe us, ask any coach who's seen him.

Golacisms: He's 6-7 and weighs 211, yet is the swiftest quarter-mile in his school, running a 49.5 440 with two weeks practice last spring. His mother never misses a game. He chews gum constantly, so much so that a Buffalo announcer wanted to know if he was chewing on the same piece he'd been masticating in Buffalo the year before.

Gola's only deficiency as a basketball player: He won't shoot enough. He signed his Christmas card to Philly sports writer Bob Vetrone: "Bevo" Gola.

Sid Gordon was telling an audience at Grossinger, N. Y., how wonderful Milwaukee was, the people couldn't do enough for the ball players, everything was free, he'd never had it so good, etc. An hour later he learned of his trade to Pittsburgh. The Reds are dangle a $40,000 bonus before Jack George, a catcher who also plays pro basketball. But he may choose his home-town Phillies even if they won't go to more than 25 G's.

Hot Stove League prediction: The draft choice most likely to succeed is Gerald Lynch, plucked by the Pirates from Kansas City. He's an outfielder cast in the Yankee mould—big, strong, fast.

Jackie Robinson was asked what he thought of new Brooklyn skipper, Walt Alton, as a strategist. "Well, I've only seen him in action once," answered Jackie, "—playing checkers. And he's plenty good at that."

Jack Kramer's tennis tour will hit rough sledding until the boss man decides to join the act again in place of Don Budge, who's too old to stand the gaff—and the competition.

The Washington Huskies, trying to recoup in football, sent an assistant coach into California to round up eight members of an undefeated junior college team.

One of the more recent greats of the golfing orbit has been de-treated because he's been concentrating on passes instead of putts.

Los Angeles boxing referee Tommy Hart has a master's degree and is working on a Ph. D. So instead of, "Awright, youse guys, I want a clean fight," we might get, "As pugilistic participants, gentlemen, I expect unsullied combat."

Despite the outward harmony, one hears that heavyweight champ Rocky Marciano is no ardent admirer of manager Al Weill.

The handsomest man in basketball would have to be George King of the Syracuse Nats. Who once led the nation's colleges in scoring as a six-foot pivot man at Morris Harvey. Coach Taps Gallagher still can't understand why Duquesne's Si Green didn't go to Niagara. Since Gallagher's brother was Green's high school teacher at Boys High in Brooklyn.

Bull Dog-Orphan Clash One of 3 Loop Games

Marion Plays Here Saturday for Only South 7 Tilt

The South Seven basketball conference gets into full swing this week-end following the holidays with three league tilts tonight and one tomorrow night.

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs participate in conference games both nights, travelling to Centralia tonight and entertaining Marion tomorrow night.

Other South Seven games tonight are Mt. Vernon at West Frankfort and Benton at Marion, with Herrin travelling to East St. Louis for a non-conference battle.

Marion at Harrisburg Saturday night but Centralia goes to Flora, Herrin to Zeigler and West Frankfort to Carbondale in non-conference contests.

Mt. Vernon still is holding the top spot in the standings with nary a loop loss but is being hard-pressed by Herrin, which has a 4-1 mark compared with Mt. Vernon's 3-0.

Centralia, tonight's foe for the Bull Dogs, does not have an impressive loop mark at present but is formidable with its team of veterans that includes Bobby Joe Mason. The Orphans managed to win their own holiday tourney, in which some of the most powerful teams in the state including Pinckneyville, Litchfield and Quincy participated.

Marion bumped Harrisburg pretty hard at Marion in an early game and the Wildcats are expected to be tough for all their opponents from here on out.

Coach Lawrence Caluffetti will be taking a revised squad that now has four sophomores on the first ten to Centralia.

The conference standings:

Team	W	L
Mt. Vernon	3	0
Herrin	4	1
Benton	2	1
Marion	3	2
Centralia	1	3
Harrisburg	0	3
West Frankfort	0	3

Junior High Fives Win Two Games From Carmi Here

Harrisburg Junior high school cagers took two games from Carmi Thursday night. The games were played on the local floor.

In the opening game on the program the Harrisburg seventh grade team rallied in the final frame to score a 42-38 victory and the eighth grade team then made it a clean sweep by winning 50-41.

The results left the Harrisburg seventh graders unbeaten for the year and marked the first loss for the Carmi eighth grade squad.

The local 8th graders broke fast and rolled to a 16-2 lead in the first three minutes of the game. The quarter ended with Harrisburg on top 17-9. The locals led 30-22 at the half and 36-32 after three quarters of play.

Early in the final frame Carmi cut the lead to only three points and the locals began to play a slow, stalling type of game, pulling out the Carmi defense. Then Harrisburg broke through for a couple of quick baskets that meant the ball game.

The local seventh graders, playing without Henshaw, one of their better players, trailed throughout most of the game, being 13-8 behind at the quarter, still trailed 22-19 at half time, and Carmi was in front 29-26 after three quarters of play. In the last quarter the locals went in front and copped the decision.

Seeing action for Harrisburg last night: Seventh grade—Rauh, Drue, Hodge, Walker, Maynard, Beggs and Abney; eighth grade—Price, Clark, Biggs, Abel, Yates and Stanley.

At half time four junior high girls from the baton twirling club, sponsored by Ronald Darnell, staged a twirling exhibition. The girls were Kay Mitchell, Rita Blackman, Donna Shewmake and Angie Psilou. A capacity crowd was on hand for the full evening's program.

Harrisburg plays at Metropolis Tuesday and entertains Norris City Thursday of next week.

Arrest Bad Check Artist Wanted In Half of Counties in Illinois

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—A long-sought bad check artist, wanted in at least half of Illinois' 102 counties and six other states, turned out to be a "sort of ordinary looking fellow," police said today.

A suspicious bartender Thursday turned the balding forger, known as Stanley Raymond and by many other aliases, over to authorities.

State Bureau of Identification Chief James Christensen said the 37-year-old prisoner's check passing "can't be counted but must have gone into the thousands of dollars."

He said that Raymond's work bore what amounted to a "trade-mark."

Congressmen Grumble Over Losing Chairs

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's getting so "sitting" members of House and Senate on state occasions have to stand, and some of them were grumbling today about doing something drastic about it.

As an aftermath of Thursday's jam-packed joint session to hear President Eisenhower's State of the Union address, several senators got up on aching feet to complain that ex-senators had grabbed their chairs, leaving them no place to sit.

At least seven "sitting" members were left standing during the President's 52-minute speech, Senate President Pro Tempore Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) reported to his incensed colleagues.

House Doorkeeper Tom Kenna said that was nothing at all—that at least 25 House members and probably 30, couldn't find seats in the crowded House chamber.

In addition, a half dozen diplomats were left at the post in the record race for House seats, House officials noted. And the garden variety voters who got turned away altogether numbered up in the hundreds.

"It was the worst jam I've ever seen," said Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R-Mass.). "The demand for tickets was greater than when Gen. Douglas MacArthur came back. Even the wives of some Cabinet members couldn't get in."

Most of the checks were for amounts ending in 86 or 68 cents, Christensen explained, but said he didn't know the reason why.

Raymond, a tall, slender man, was so successful because he used a check "protector" and check writer which Springfield Detective Bureau Chief Willard Kelley said "he stole somewhere."

No Fast-Talking Type
He usually stole blank payroll checks from business firms and then filled in the amounts with the check protector, police said.

Kelley said the elusive Raymond surprised officers because he "didn't especially seem the fast-talking type."

"He's quite a fellow," Kelley said.

"His wife in Pana, Ill., says his real name is Steager, but I don't think even she knows," he added. State files showed Raymond had been in prison half-a-dozen times in the last 15 years for burglary, larceny and forgery. He was identified by fingerprints.

Christensen said Raymond had admitted cashing worthless checks in Montgomery, Bond, Christian and Macoupin counties, and "has operated all over the state." The admissions dated back to 1951.

Marriage Rate Shows Decline

NEW YORK (AP)—Marriage apparently isn't as popular as it used to be.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company said Thursday the marriage rate for 1953 fell to "the lowest point in two decades."

There were about 1,553,000 marriages last year while in 1946, for example, there were 2,291,000.

Chester is Second Area City to Start Development Study

CHESTER, Ill. (AP)—The first step in making a community development study of Chester will be taken next Thursday when volunteers will be chosen to take a census of the community.

Chester became the second Southern Illinois city to start a community development study when a planning meeting was held Thursday night. Eldorado was the first to start a study with aid from Richard Poston of Southern Illinois university, Carbondale.

THE instant you see these 1954 Buicks, you'll know that something sensational has happened in automobile styling.

Here is vastly more than the usual model changeover. Here is vastly more than could be done just by warming over what Buick had before. Here is something accomplished by going far beyond artful face-lifting.

Here is that rarity of rarities—a completely new line of automobiles.

But Buick didn't stop with the bolder, fresher, swifter-lined beauty you see in raised and lengthened fender sweep—in the huge and back-swept expanse of windshield—in the lowered roofline—in the host more glamor features of exterior modernity.

They upped all horsepowers to the highest in Buick history.

They engineered a new V8 for the SPECIAL—and in the process came up with new Power-Head Pistons that boost gasoline mileage in every engine.

They brought to market a sparkling newcomer with a famous name, the Buick CENTURY—a car with phenomenal horsepower for its weight and price—a car with more pure thrill per dollar than any Buick ever built.

And they did all this without change
